1. Political violence in Southeast Asia since 1945: case studies from six countries / Edited by Eve Monique Zucker and Ben Kiernan. - Abingdon, Oxon: Routledge, 2021.308p.

Abstract: This book examines postwar waves of political violence that affected six Southeast Asian countries - Indonesia, Burma/Myanmar, Cambodia, Thailand, the Philippines, and Vietnam – from the wars of independence in the mid-twentieth century to the recent Rohingya genocide. Featuring cases not previously explored, and offering fresh insights into more familiar cases, the chapters cover a range of topics including the technologies of violence, the politics of fear, inclusion and exclusion, justice and ethics, repetitions of mass violence events, impunity, law, ethnic and racial killings, crimes against humanity, and genocide. The book delves into the violence that has reverberated across the region spurred by local and global politics and ideologies, through the examination of such themes as identity ascription and formation, existential and ontological questions, collective memories of violence, and social and political transformation. In our current era of global social and political transition, the volume's case studies provide an opportunity to consider potential repercussions and outcomes of various political and ideological positioning and policies. Enhancing our understanding of the technologies, techniques, motives, causes, consequences, and connections between violent episodes in the Southeast Asian cases, the book raises key questions for the study of mass violence worldwide.

2. Dickson, Bruce J.

Party and the people: Chinese politics in the 21st century / Bruce J. Dickson. - Princeton: Princeton University Press, 2021. 315p.

Abstract: Since 1949, the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) has maintained unrivaled control over the country, persisting even in the face of economic calamity, widespread social upheaval, and violence against its own people. Yet the party does not sustain dominance through repressive tactics alone—it pairs this with surprising responsiveness to the public. The Party and the People explores how this paradox has helped the CCP endure for decades, and how this balance has shifted increasingly toward repression under the rule of President Xi Jinping. Delving into the tenuous binary of repression and responsivity, Bruce Dickson illuminates numerous questions surrounding the CCP's rule: How does it choose leaders and create policies? When does it allow protests? Will China become democratic? Dickson shows that the party's dual approach lies at the core of its practices repression when dealing with existential, political threats or challenges to its authority and responsiveness when confronting localized economic or social unrest. The state answers favorably to the demands of protesters on certain issues, such as local environmental hazards and healthcare, but deals harshly with others, such as protests in Tibet, Xinjiang, or Hong Kong. With the CCP's greater reliance on suppression since Xi Jinping's rise to power in 2012, Dickson considers the ways that this tipping of the scales will influence China's future.

3. Sharda, Ratan

RSS 360: demystifying Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh / Ratan Sharda. - New York: Bloomsbury, 2021. 331p.

Demystifying Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh

Abstract: With a widespread network of thousands of local branches and millions of volunteers, the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh's (RSS) presence and influence are formidable. It has long been acknowledged that the best way to know the RSS is to join it. Perhaps, this is why there is very little literature on how it functions. As a senior member who has managed various responsibilities in the RSS over the years, Ratan Sharda reveals the supposedly secret world of this volunteer organisation. He presents a comprehensive view of the Sangh's philosophy, its workings and its humungous reach across India through various organisations inspired by it in a simple and easyflowing manner, sprinkled with interesting anecdotes. His style is refreshingly unconventional and he responds to controversial issues candidly. Since the publication of the first edition in 2018, the Indian sociopolitical landscape has seen unprecedented changes-the nullification of Article 370, the Citizenship (Amendment) Act, the building of Ram Mandir and many such events. All these comprised the action points of the RSS, which have been pursued diligently over years. These changes have been landmarks, altering Indian society and the social narrative decisively. This updated and refreshed version examines these changes.

4. Yadav, R. K.

Mission R&AW: upgraded edition / R. K. Yadav. - 2nd ed. - New Delhi: Adhyayan Publishers, 2021. 493p.

Abstract: This book also unfolds as to how Article 370 was enacted for the ego problem of Sheikh Abdullah by Jawaharlal Nehru and how sheikh betrayed him later and was arrested for treason by IB. There had been numerous stories criticizing IB for its failure to provide adequate intelligence during the 1962 war with china and 1965 war with Pakistan. This book has given credible instance and information with the inputs in the forward areas. Factual details as to how CIA hoodwinked the R&AW join secretary Rabinder singh and took him to USA through Nepal are also given in a separate chapter. In additions to these achievements, the book has portrayed decline of the quality of intelligence which how now denigrated to a level which needs urgent informs otherwise future of R&AW would be gloomy. Some insights of R&AW could be lethal to some individuals but in fact these are the real facts for which the author has no regret to reveal in national interest and for the tension of coming generation of intelligence officers. These revelations make a strong place for bringing the intelligence agencies of India under parliament scrutiny like CIA of USA and other such agencies of the world democracies otherwise the happenings like attack on parliament or 26/11 terrorist act of Mumbai are unlikely to be thwarted and future.

5. Fry, Helen

Spymaster: the man who saved MI6 / Helen Fry. - New Haven: Yale University Press, 2021. 337p.

Abstract: Thomas Kendrick (1881–1972) was central to the British Secret Service from its beginnings through to the Second World War. Under the guise of "British Passport Officer," he ran spy networks across Europe, facilitated the escape of Austrian Jews, and later went on to set up the "M Room," a listening operation which elicited information of the same significance and scope as Bletchley Park. Yet the work of Kendrick, and its full significance, remains largely unknown Helen Fry draws on extensive original research to tell the story of this remarkable British intelligence officer. Kendrick's life sheds light on the development of MI6 itself he was one of the few men to serve Britain across three wars, two of which while working for the British Secret Service. Fry explores the private and public sides of Kendrick, revealing him to be the epitome of the "English gent" easily able to charm those around him and scrupulously secretive.

Smokeless war: China's quest for geopolitical dominance / Manoj Kewalramani. - New Delhi: Bloombury Publishing, 2021. 319.

Abstract: In January 2020, the COVID-19 outbreak in China was viewed as a black swan event, threatening the Communist Party's rule. Two short months later, however, China appeared to have controlled the virus, while the rest of the world struggled to respond. As country after country imposed lockdowns of varying strictness and the human cost began to rise, geopolitical frictions flared up over the origins of the virus, along with Beijing's early failures, diplomacy and discourse. Smokeless War: China's Quest for Geopolitical Dominance offers a gripping account of the Communist Party of China's political, diplomatic and narrative responses during the pandemic. Drawing on the latest academic research and Chinese language sources, it discusses the Party-State's efforts to achieve greater discourse power and political primacy, as it sought to convert a potentially existential crisis into a historic opportunity. In doing so, the author provides an insightful account of the Communist Party of China's approaches to cultivating sources of strength and exercise of power.

Maritime corridors in the Indo-Pacific: geopolitical implications for India / Subhasish Sarangi. - New Delhi: Pentagon Press LLP, 2021. 244p.

Abstract: The genesis of this book is the Maritime component of the Belt and Road Initiative, quixotically named as the Maritime Silk Road. It looks at infrastructure development in the Indo-Pacific, primarily in the maritime domain, and its geopolitical implications for India. The book is in three parts. The first part provides the historical background. It looks at the Indo-Pacific mapping, provides a snapshot of the maritime history of the region, and brings out the inextricable linkage between technology, infrastructure and geopolitics. The second part looks at events in recent times. It describes the infrastructure development and connectivity enhancement activities of the various actors in the Indo-Pacific Region — China, Japan, the USA, the European Union, ASEAN, Australia and India. The third part looks at the future. It explores the geopolitical implications of these developments for India, and lists out what India could do to mitigate the threats emanating from them.

India vs UK: the story of an unprecedented diplomatic win / Syed Akbaruddin. - India: HarperCollins Publishers, 2021. 211p.

Abstract: From the revolt of 1857 and the freedom movement to duels on the cricket pitch, India and the United Kingdom have been on opposing sides on numerous occasions. A less known instance when this dynamic played out was the 2017 election for a seat on the International Court of Justice. Unwilling at first, India was prompted to enter the ring in the wake of the Kulbhushan Jadhav case. The contest that followed proved to be a 'second war of Independence' in the words of then foreign minister Sushma Swaraj - and a David-and-Goliath fight against the permanent members of the Security Council, who all put their might behind the UK. Syed Akbaruddin, India's Permanent Representative to the UN at the time presents a behind-the-scenes account of India's coming-of-age in world affairs through the prism of this momentous election.

China-India standoff in Ladakh mean for Pakistan / Bimal Chandra Kumar. - Delhi: Prashant Publishing House, 2021. 256p.

Abstract: Understandably, due to its evolving ties with China and rivalry with India, Pakistan has been viewing the Ladakh standoff through a Chinese lens. The episode has gained substantial space in mainstream Pakistani media. As expected, there are India-bashing commentaries, analysis, and coverage on TV channels, along with official backing. The reason is obvious: Pakistan, like China, has its own long-standing territorial dispute with India. That has led to wars between the two countries, as well as frequent clashes along the Line of Control, dividing the disputed Kashmir between India and Pakistan. Civilians have lost their lives on both sides of de facto border.

West and the birth of Bangladesh: foreign policy in the face of mass Artocity / Richard Pilkington. - Canada: UBC Press, 2021. 283p.

Foreign Policy in the Face of Mass Atrocity
Richard Pilkington

Abstract: In 1971, authorities in Islamabad perpetrated mass atrocities in East Pakistan in an attempt to thwart a struggle for autonomy by terrorizing the local population into submission. The West and the Birth of Bangladesh explores the decision-making processes and ethical debates in Washington, Ottawa, and London during the crucial first few months of the crisis. US president Richard Nixon and his national security advisor, Henry Kissinger, favoured appeasement of Islamabad. The Canadian government was unwilling to hazard bilateral ties with Pakistan. Under public pressure, only the UK showed somewhat greater willingness to coerce Islamabad into ending its oppressive actions. Richard Pilkington analyzes the interplay of US, Canadian, and British responses toward East Pakistan, and the available policy options. This insightful book reveals how, even as human rights movements began to emerge in the West, blinkered government actors there remained too preoccupied with protecting national interests to take firm action during the crisis.

Nepal's instability conundrum: navigating political, military, economic & diplomatic landscape / Purna B. Silwal. - Lalitpur, Nepal: Institute for National Security Studies, 2021. 373p.

Abstract: Nepal has experienced a vicious cycle of political instability since the 1950s. Multiparty democracy and constitutional monarchy (Twin-pillar system) collapsed in just one and half decades as it failed to maintain political stability and control the Maoist insurgency. The federal democratic republic has also become entangled in instability. In the last 70 years, Nepal has experienced almost all political systems, but none of them provided sustained stability and desired economic progress. This book examines the instability conundrum through five drivers: founding philosophy, national interest and threats, domestic political culture, civil-military relations, state response to armed insurgencies, and interest and Nepal strategies of external powers. Its underlying reasons and intricacies are cross-examined and discussed in the book.

Tiger leading the dragon: how Taiwan propelled China's economic rise / Shelley Rigger. - New York: Rowman & Littlefield, 2021. 218p.

Abstract: How did the once-secretive, isolated People's Republic of China become the factory to the world? Shelley Rigger convincingly demonstrates that the answer is Taiwan. She follows the evolution of Taiwan's influence from the period when Deng Xiaoping lifted Mao's prohibitions on business in the late 1970s, allowing investors from Taiwan to collaborate with local officials in the PRC to transform mainland China into a manufacturing powerhouse. After World War II, Taiwan's fleet-footed export-oriented manufacturing firms became essential links in global supply chains. In the late 1980s, Taiwanese firms seized the opportunity to lower production costs by moving to the PRC, which was seeking foreign investment to fuel its industrial rise. Within a few years, Taiwan's traditional manufacturing had largely relocated to the PRC, opening space for a wave of new business creation in information technology. The Tiger Leading the Dragon development of the cross-Taiwan Strait economic traces the relationship and explores how Taiwanese firms and individuals transformed Chinese business practices. It also reveals their contributions to Chinese consumer behavior, philanthropy, religion, popular culture, and law.

Preventing the next pandemic: vaccine diplomacy in a time of antiscience / Peter J. Hotez. - Maryland: John Hopkins University Press, 2021. 192p.

Abstract: Modern diseases and viruses have been spurred anew by war and conflict as well as shifting poverty, urbanization, climate change, and a new troubling anti-science/anti-vaccination outlook. From such twenty-first-century forces, we have seen declines in previous global health gains, with sharp increases in vaccinepreventable and neglected diseases on the Arabian Peninsula, in Venezuela, in parts of Africa, and even on the Gulf Coast of the United States. In Preventing the Next Pandemic, international vaccine scientist and tropical disease and coronavirus expert Peter J. Hotez. MD, PhD, argues that we can and must rely on vaccine diplomacy to address this new world order in disease and global health. Detailing his years in the lab developing new vaccines, Hotez also recounts his travels around the world to shape vaccine partnerships with people in countries both rich and poor in an attempt to head off major health problems. Building on the legacy of Dr. Albert Sabin, who developed the oral polio vaccine with Soviet scientists at the height of the Cold War, he explains how he is still working to refresh and redirect vaccine diplomacy toward neglected and newly emerging diseases.

Three tigers, one mountain: a journey through the bitter history and current conflicts of China, Korea and Japan / Michael Booth. - New York: St. Martin's Press, 2020. 315p.

Abstract: There is an ancient Chinese proverb that states, "Two tigers cannot share the same mountain." However, in East Asia, there are three tigers on that mountain: China, Japan, and Korea, and they have a long history of turmoil and tension with each other. In his latest entertaining and thought provoking narrative travelogue, Michael Booth sets out to discover how deep, really, is the enmity between these three "tiger" nations, and what prevents them from making peace. Currently China's economic power continues to grow, Japan is becoming more militaristic, and Korea struggles to reconcile its westernized south with the dictatorial Communist north. Booth, long fascinated with the region, travels by car, ferry, train, and foot, experiencing the people and culture of these nations up close. No matter where he goes, the burden of history, and the memory of past atrocities, continues to overshadow present relationships. Ultimately, Booth seeks a way forward for these closely intertwined, neighboring nations.

Abstract: This is an interdisciplinary volume exploring a range of historical, anthropological and literary ideas and issues in South Asian Borderlands. Going beyond the territorial and geo-political imaginaries of contemporary borderlands in South Asia, chapters in this book engage with the questions of sovereignty, control, policing as well as continuing affections across politically divided borderlands. Modern conceptions of nationhood have created categories of legality and illegality among historically, socially, economically and emotionally connected residents of South Asian borderlands. This volume provides unique insights into the interconnected lives and histories of these borderland spaces and communities.

Peace, poverty and betrayal: a new history of British India / Roderick Matthews. - Uttar Pradesh: HarperCollins Publishers, 2021. 433p.

Abstract: How can we explain the establishment and longevity of British rule in India without recourse to the clichés of "imperial" versus "nationalist" interpretations? In this new history, Roderick Matthews offers a more nuanced view: one of "oblige and rule", the foundation of common purpose between colonizers and powerful Indians. Peace, Poverty and Betrayal argues that this was not a uniformly systematic approach, but rather a state of being: the British were never clear or consistent in their policies, and among British and Indians alike there were both progressive and conservative attitudes to the struggle over colonization. Matthews' narrative also takes in the East India Company, which was manifestly incompetent as a ruler by 1770, yet after 1820 arguably became the world's first liberal government. Skillfully tying these ambiguities and complexities of British rule in India to the ultimate struggle for independence. Matthews illustrates that the very diversity of British- Indian relations was at the heart of the social changes that would lead to the Freedom Struggle of the twentieth century. Skewering the simplistic binaries that often dominate the debate, Peace, Poverty and Betraval is a fresh and gracefully written narrative history of British India.

Pakistan after Trump: great power responsibility in a multi-polar world / Saloni Kapur. - Newcastle upon Tyne: Cambridge Scholars Publishing, 2021. 325p.

Abstract: Since 9/11, the international narrative on Pakistan has painted a picture of a country that is a "safe haven" for terrorists and a "state sponsor of terrorism" that plays a "double game" as it pretends to fight militant Islamist extremists while nurturing them in its "backyard." This discourse came to prominence in January 2018 when US President Donald Trump famously tweeted that his country had "foolishly" provided military aid to Pakistan since 2001, in return for which Pakistan had given "safe haven to the terrorists [they] hunt in Afghanistan." This book questions this dominant narrative by showing how the great powers the United States, the United Kingdom, China, India, Saudi Arabia, and Iran have directly caused the emergence of a militant ecosystem in Pakistan.

Pride and power: a modern history of Iraq / Johan Franzen. - London: Hurst & Company, 2020. 542p.

Abstract: The story of Iraq is one of resistance. In this groundbreaking study, Johan Franzen offers a contextual modern history of the country, its creation and its struggle for sovereignty. Iraq's contemporary history is a tale of a diverse people thrown together into a nation-state by imperialist statecraft. From the state's inception as a League of Nations mandate in the 1920s, through wars, coups and revolutions, Iraqis have always resisted foreign domination. But the country, propelled by the quest for power, intense national pride and a zeal for sovereignty, was catapulted along a trajectory of violence. On one side stood imperialism, seeking to control Iraq for its own ends. Facing it, Iraqis of varying nationalist groups tried to rid the country of foreign meddling and steer a course of self-determination. Pride and Power offers in-depth analysis of the most important events, decisions and processes that led Iraq down this path. Based on extensive research of primary sources, both Iraqi and Western, the book unravels the complexity of Irag's political history. It is essential reading for anyone interested in the international relations of the Middle East or in understanding the rich history of Iraq, from its foundation to the present.
