India's grand strategy and foreign policy: strategic pluralism and subcultures / Bernhard Beitelmair-Berini. - London: Routledge, 2022. 200p.

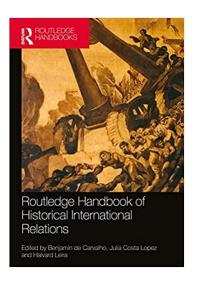

Abstract: The book explores the competing grand strategic worldviews shaping India's foreign and security policies by analyzing the interaction between normative modern international relations theories and vernacular concepts of statecraft and strategy. To assess the diverse competing ideas which characterize India's debates on grand strategy and foreign policy, the author presents the subculturecleavage model of grand strategic thought. This innovative analytical framework reveals the complexities of India's strategic pluralism and offers the building blocks for a systematic analysis of grand strategy formation. The book demonstrates that the strategic paradigms, or strategic subcultures, are marked by contending ideas of Indian statehood and civilization, held by policymakers and the informed public, and are a result of ideology-driven perceptions of the country's strategic environment. The author argues that the apparent hybridization and stretching of modern and traditional concepts of international relations in India has become a widespread feature of Indian foreign policy to meet the needs of state formation and nationbuilding.

3. Palgrave handbook of Arctic policy and politics / Edited by Ken S. Coates and Carin Holroyd. - Switzerland: Palgrave Macmillan, 2020.569p.

Abstract: The Arctic has, for some forty years, been among the most innovative policy environments in the world. The region has developed impressive systems for intra-regional cooperation, responded to the challenges of the rapid environmental change, empowered and engaged with Indigenous peoples, and dealt with the multiple challenges of natural resource development. The Palgrave Handbook on Arctic Policy and Politics has drawn on scholars from many countries and academic disciplines to focus on the central theme of Arctic policy innovation. The portrait that emerges from these chapters is of a complex, fluid policy environment, shaped by internal. national and global dynamics and by a wide range of political, legal, economic, and social transitions. The Arctic is a complex place from a political perspective and is on the verge of becoming even more so. Effective, proactive and forward-looking policy innovation will be required if the Far North is to be able to address its challenges and capitalize on its opportunities.

THE INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE AND INDIAN FOREIGN POLICY, 1923-1961

Abstract: This book provides an authoritative account of the first significant overseas diplomatic missions and forays made by Indian civil servants. It recounts the key events in the formative decades of Indian foreign policy and looks at the prominent figures who were at the centre of this decisive period of change. The book explores the history and evolution of the civil and foreign services in India during the last leg of British rule and the following era of post-independence Nehruvian politics. Rich in archival material, it looks at official files. correspondences and diaries documenting the terms served by the pioneers of Indian diplomacy, Girja Shankar Bajpai, K.P.S. Menon and Subimal Dutt, in Africa, China, the USSR andother countries and their relationship with the Indian political leadership. The book also analyses and pieces together the activities, strategies, worldviews and contributions of the first administrators and diplomats who shaped India's approach to foreign policy and its relationship with other political powers. An essential read for researchers and academics, this book will be a useful resource for students of international relations. foreign policy, political science and modern Indian history, especially those interested in the history of Indian foreign affairs. It will also be of great use to general readers who are interested in the history of politics and diplomacy in India and South Asia.

Opportunities for India in a changing world / Arvind Gupta. - New Dehli: KW Publishers, 2022. 302p.

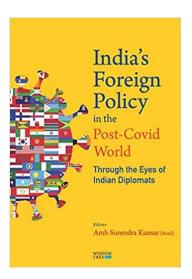

Abstract: We are living in an era of extraordinarily fast paced change. The Covid-19 pandemic has turned the world upside down and deepened political, economic and social uncertainties. The post-World War order set up in 1945 by the Western countries is under tremendous strain. The contour of the new order is not yet clear. With the rise of China, the seeming retreat of the US from Eurasia, the deepening schism between Russia and the West, growing closeness of Russia and China, the Cold War rivalries are back. A new balance of power is beginning to shape up. The world is also witnessing a host of other destabilising trends: climate change and extreme weather terrorism and radicalisation, pandemics, events. demography, to name a few. They are testing the resilience of even the most powerful countries. India should be prepared to deal with a highly challenging security environment that will become even more complex in future. It should lookout for opportunities in a world that is being reformatted. A long-enduring civilization, India has weathered the storms of disruption on numerous occasions and will be able to do so again provided it understands the nature of change and undertakes reforms to be prepared for a new, uncertain world. The concept of selfreliance or Atmanirbhar Bharat, propounded by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, which builds on India's inherent strengths, provides a framework to deal with an uncertain world.

6. India's foreign policy in the post-covid World: through the eyes of Indian diplomats / Edited by Amb Surendra Kumar. - New Delhi: Wisdom Tree, 2022.385p.

Abstract: Has the balance of power in global diplomacy permanently shifted due to Covid-19? How would nations reeling under the economic and human impact of the pandemic find a new equilibrium? Is India ready to retain, if not improve, its standing in the new world order? Who can be trusted more to provide an incisive analysis of these questions over thirty seasoned and hard-nosed practitioners of diplomacy holding combined experience of 1050 years! They have come together to share their expertise and ideas on India's relations with all the important countries, regions and organizations in the post Covid-19 world. This distinctive book, the second in the series 'Through the Eyes of Indian Diplomats', offers an insight into how India's foreign policy has navigated through unprecedented challenges, continued diplomatic discourse in imaginative manner using new technological tools and served India's national interests in a world transformed in many ways, beyond recognition. A thought-provoking, dispassionate and not-to-be-missed account from the frontiers of foreign policy, not just for the practitioners of diplomacy and scholars but for the students and uninitiated as well.

7. Rao, Nirupama

Fractured Himalaya: India Tibet China 1949-1962 / Nirupama Rao. - Gurugram: Penguin Random House, 2021. 609p.

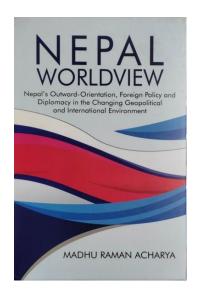

Abstract: Why did India and China go to war in 1962? What propelled Jawaharlal Nehru's 'vision' of China? Why is it necessary to understand the trans-Himalayan power play of India and China in the formative period of their nationhoods? The past shadows the present in this relationship and shapes current policy options, strongly influencing public debate in India to this day. Nirupama Rao, a former Foreign Secretary of India, unknots this intensely complex saga of the early years of the India-China relationship. As a diplomatpractitioner, Rao's telling is based not only on archival material from India, China, Britain and the United States, but also on a deep personal knowledge of China, where she served as India's Ambassador. In addition, she brings a practitioner's keen eye to the labyrinth of negotiations and official interactions that took place between the two countries from 1949 to 1962. The Fractured Himalaya looks at the inflection points when the trajectory of diplomacy between these two nations could have course-corrected but did not. Importantly, it dwells on the strategic dilemma posed by Tibet in relations between India and China-a dilemma that is far from being resolved. The question of Tibet is closely interwoven into the fabric of this history. It also turns the searchlight on the key personalities involved-Jawaharlal Nehru, Mao Zedong, Zhou Enlai and the 14th Dalai Lama-and their interactions as the tournament of those years was played out, moving step by closer step to the conflict of 1962.

Nepal worldview: Nepal's outward-orientation, foreign policy and diplomacy in the changing geopolitical and international environment / Madhu Raman Acharya. - New Delhi: Adroit Publishers, 2021. 710p.

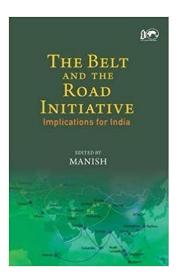

Abstract: In this insightful book, the author explores how Nepal and its people as a nation articulate their 'Worldview' in the sense of telling the world about who their are, what they stand for, what they can offer and what they need from others and how they interact with others. In doing so, the author examines Nepal's foreign policy and diplomacy, including the dynamics in its neighbourhood and beyond in the changing domestic, regional and international circumstances. The book also makes a sober assessment of Nepal's geopolitical, economical and cultural antecedents and dynamics in relation to its external environment.

9. Belt and the road initiative: implications for India / Edited by Manish. - New Delhi: Pentagon Press, 2021.323P.

Abstract: The Belt and the Road initiative was unveiled by the Chinese president Xi Jinping in 2013. This initiative covers a multitude of investment projects, with the aim of promoting the flow of goods, investment and people. The new connections fostered by the BRI could reconfigure relationships, reroute economic activity, and shift power within and between states. The flagship project of BRI is the China Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC), which connects Kashgar in Xinjiang, China to the Gwadar port in Pakistani province of Balochistan. In addition, there are other dimensions in evolving South Asia's landscape which have attracted scholars and experts to ponder over the recent rise in Chinese power and its implications for India. This book is an attempt to analyse the interconnected recent political, military and economic developments with regard to BRI, in light of India's concerns.

Economics and law of artificial intelligence: finance, economic impacts, risk management and governance / Georgios I. Zekos. - Switzerland: Springer, 2021. 543p.

Abstract: This book presents a comprehensive analysis of the alterations and problems caused by new technologies in all fields of the global digital economy. The impact of artificial intelligence (AI) not only on law but also on economics is examined. In the first part, the economics of AI are explored, including topics such as e-globalization and digital economy, corporate governance, risk management, and risk development, followed by a quantitative econometric analysis which utilizes regressions stipulating the scale of the impact. In the second part, the author presents the law of AI, covering topics such as the law of electronic technology, legal issues, AI and intellectual property rights, and legalizing AI. Case studies from different countries are presented, as well as a specific analysis of international law and common law. This book is a must-read for scholars and students of law, economics, and business, as well as policy-makers and practitioners, interested in a better understanding of legal and economic aspects and issues of AI and how to deal with them.

New Lahures: foreign employment and remittance economy of Nepal / David Seddon, Jagannath Adhikari and Ganesh Gurung. - New Delhi: Adroit Publishers, 2021. 219p.

Abstract: Twenty years ago, in 2001, Jagannath Adhikari, Ganesh Gurung and David Seddon wrote a short book together to report on the research they had undertaken towards the end of the 1990's, on foreign labour migration and what they called "The Remittance Economy of Nepal". The research was truly pioneering, in so far as it pulled together evidence from a wide variety of sources to reveal the hitherto un-recognised scale of remittances flowing back into Nepal from Nepali migrants living and working abroad. Over the next two decades, not only was the importance of foreign migration and the extent of the reliance of the nepali economy on remittances widely recognized, but also it became evident that both foreign migration and the value of remittances had increased phenomenally, transforming key features of Nepali economy and society. The outbreak of the covid-19 epidemic prompted the three authors of the original book to embark on a new, updated, additional chapter to put the early work in perspective and also to consider the impact of the pandemic on the flows of labour and of remittances in 2021-2021 in the year of covid.

12. Asian defence review 2021 / Edited by Anil Chopra. - New Delhi: KW Publishers, 2021.260p.

Abstract: India began 2021 with Chinese troops still holding tactically important positions at the Line of Actual Control (LAC), and despite eleven rounds of talks, de-escalation has not taken place significantly. More recently the very lethal second wave of COVID-19 hit India taking a massive toll of human lives. Globally, USA saw election of Joe Biden, a Democrat, after a very hotly contested polarised election. After 100 days of his Presidency, USA continues to progress most foreign policy issues with a hardline approach towards China. Biden meanwhile has decided to take forward his predecessor's decision to pullout of Afghanistan. USA clearly sees China as a competitor and challenger. China and the US are decoupling, disrupting bilateral flows of technology (semiconductors, cloud computing and 5G), talent, and investment. The 21st century is getting set for geostrategic play in Asia-pacific region. Biden is more open to participate and accept climate change challenges. With action shifting to the Indo-Pacific, Europe has to take its calls and alignments. The Quadrilateral Security Dialogue (QUAD) is engaging in greater interaction, but each partner is still taking individual calls on the extent of the alliance.

Transforming India's external security using its Ancient strategic culture / Rajesh R Chaudhary. - New Dehli: KW Publishers, 2021. 218p.

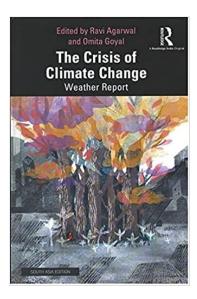

Abstract: The book is about Civil-Military cohesion and India's ancient strategic culture. It analyses the security architecture of India dealing with external security with an aim to enhance its effectiveness. Civil-Military relations is an important aspect which affects the external security of the country. The approach to understanding Civil-Military relations has generally utilized Western theoretical constructs. The book follows a different approach. It utilizes India's ancient strategic culture to understand India's inherent strengths and weaknesses. India is an ancient civilization with a great strategic culture which spans many millennia. While the structure of the military may be what India inherited from the British, but the ethos of soldiering is what has evolved from the Vedic and the Epic periods. The book analyses the deficiencies in India's present security architecture and suggests a structure which amalgamates the past and the present. It utilizes Civil-Military cohesion to suggest an external security architecture, which provides a comprehensive, whole of nation approach to national security. This structure based on Civil-Military integration provides an option not only for the present but also for the timeless lessons that India's past teaches us.

14. Crisis of climate change: weather report / Edited by Ravi Agarwal and Omita Goyal. - Abingdon, Oxon: Routledge, 2022.243p.

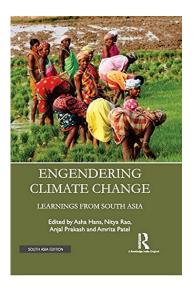

Abstract: This volume outlines the specific conditions and responses to climate change in India. It discusses various aspects of the planetary crisis that have acquired widespread global urgency global warming induced by anthropogenic emissions, largely owing to the fossil fuel-based economic growth model; severe environmental decline; and the catastrophic consequences that threaten the very foundations of modern life, which has been based on using nature as a 'resource' instead of as an ecosystem in which human life exists. The book brings together contributors with expertise in fields as varied as national security, public policy, environmental law, climate justice activism, anthropology, restoration ecology, conservation biology, wildlife ecology, the health sector and medicine, conservation science and sustainability, gender, humanities and the creative arts. It includes a new spectrum of responses—holistic or alternate, literary and the arts, dance and poetry—and their interface with climate change, which are often left out in science and policy circles, and an unusual ground-up approach with grassroots movements' perspectives along with theoretical practices and a Gandhian way of thinking in a global economy.

Abstract: This book focuses on the gendered experiences of environmental change across different geographies and social contexts in South Asia and on diverse strategies of adapting to climate variability. The book analyzes how changes in rainfall patterns, floods, droughts, heatwaves and landslides affect those who are directly dependent on the agrarian economy. It examines the socio-economic pressures, including the increase in women's work burdens both in production and reproduction on gender relations. It also examines coping mechanisms such as male migration and the formation of women's collectives which create space for agency and change in rigid social relations. The volume looks at perspectives from India, Pakistan, Bangladesh and Nepal to present the nuances of gender relations across borders along with similarities and differences across geographical, socio-cultural and policy contexts.

China's leaders: from Mao to now / David Shambaugh. - Cambridge: Polity, 2021. 398p.

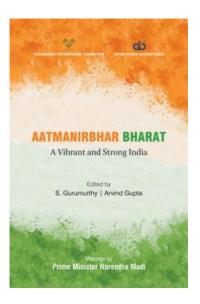

Abstract: Since the founding of the People's Republic of China over 70 years ago, five paramount leaders have shaped the fates and fortunes of the nation and the ruling Chinese Communist Party: Mao Zedong, Deng Xiaoping, Jiang Zemin, Hu Jintao, and Xi Jinping. Under their leaderships, China has undergone an extraordinary transformation from an undeveloped and insular country to a comprehensive world power. In this definitive study, renowned Sinologist David Shambaugh offers a refreshing account of China's dramatic post-revolutionary history through the prism of those who ruled it. Exploring the formative socialization, psychology, and professional persona, experiences of each leader, Shambaugh shows how their differing leadership styles and tactics of rule shaped China domestically and internationally: Mao was a populist tyrant, Deng a pragmatic Leninist, Jiang a bureaucratic politician, Hu a technocratic apparatchik, and Xi a modern emperor. Covering the full scope of these leaders' personalities and power, this is an illuminating guide to China's modern history and understanding how China has become the superpower of today.

17. Aatmanirbhar Bharat: a vibrant and strong India / Edited by S. Gurumurthy and Arvind Gupta. - New Delhi: Aryan Books International, 2021.470p.

Neither development without self-pride nor self-pride without development are desirable. Prime Minister Narendra Modi's call for Aatmanirbhar Bharat or a self-reliant India on 12 May 2020 goes beyond mere economic self-reliance. The COVID-19 pandemic brought forth India's unhealthy and unsustainable dependencies on imports, be it of goods, armaments, technology or even ideas. India, thus, needs a course correction, which the Aatmanirbhar model provides. The Aatmanirbhar programme goes beyond indigenization, and aims to make India self-reliant in political, economic, military, social, and cultural aspects while rediscovering and developing India's inherent strengths. The idea is not to go alone, but rebalance being strategically dependent and strategically interdependent. The editors encouraged by the Prime Minister's message to this publication. In his words, "India's inner strength, intent and energy is powering the nation's resolute efforts towards building a prosperous and Aatmanirbhar Bharat." Aatmanirbhar Bharat's vision is global peace, prosperity and welfare of all. Through this book, India's leading thinkers and policy stalwarts (including two Padma Shri awardees), dive deep into conceptualizing and outlining the way forward for this arduous, yet ardent vision of Aatmanirbharta.

India, Europe and the question of cultural difference: the apeiron of relations / D. Venkat Rao. - Abingdon, Oxon: Routledge, 2022. 211p.

Abstract: This volume critically engages with the question of cultural difference and the idea of living with diversity in the context of India and Europe. It looks at certain essential European categories of learning such as art, nature, the human, literature, relation, philosophy, and the humanities and analyses texts from Sanskrit language (through Telugu resources) to argue that categories like prakriti, loka, jati, dharma, karma, sahitya, kala, etc. cannot be conflated with conceptual formations such as nature, world, caste, religion, (sanctioned) action, literature and art respectively. The book questions and unravels the efficacy of European concepts, theories and interpretive frames in understanding Indian reflective traditions and cultural forms. It also lays the groundwork for reorienting teaching and research in universities in the humanities on the basis of key cultural differences. By focusing on major themes in the humanities discourse and their limitations, the work engages with the writings of Heidegger, Derrida and Agamben, among others, from radically new vantage points of Sanskrit-Indian reflective traditions, and challenges prevailing ideas about Indian art, literature and culture.

Bangladesh war: report from ground zero / Manash Ghosh. - New Delhi: Niyogi Books, 2021. 209p.

Abstract: The Bangladesh Liberation War of 1971, also known as the Muktijudhdho, was a result of the total alienation of the Bengalis of East Pakistan from the non-Bengalis of the West, setting off a violent political upheaval in the eastern unit of the country, ultimately leading to the formation of the People's Republic of Bangladesh. This riveting first-hand account of the Liberation War has been written by a former journalist of The Statesman. In fact, the author, then a mere cub reporter, had predicted the coming of the war as early as in January 1971 by writing an article in the Sunday Statesman titled 'When Brother meets Brother'. When the conflict started, he was one of the very few Indian journalists who covered the epochal event from the very beginning until the final surrender by the Pakistan military in Khulna on 17 December.

US and NATO withdrawal from Afghanistan: stagnation of Afghanistan's state institutions, Pakistan, Iran, India, Taliban, the ISIS terrorist Caliphate and the CIA war crimes / Musa Khan Jalalzai. - New Delhi: Vij Books India, 2021. 536p.

Abstract: The unceremonious and gruff announcement of President Joe Biden to withdraw US forces from Afghanistan, once again authenticated reservations of Afghan politicians and military generals that the United States has embraced the culture of breaking faith with friends and allies. The US leadership has never been a true friend of Pakistan, Afghanistan and Iraq since 2001. It has committed numerous war crimes in Asia and African, while its antagonism against Islam is not a new thing. In the 1990s, after the dissolution of the Union of Soviet, Pentagon and CIA left Afghanistan in trouble, which prompted civil war and the collapse of Afghan state in 1992. This unethical and untraditional dealing with allies has made dubious credibility of the CIA and Pentagon in the eyes of Russia, Muslim World and China.
